Quarterly Economic Outlook for FY2022-2023(Update)

June 8, 2022(JST), “SMBC NIKKO Japan Economic Outlook for FY2022-2023” has been released, responding to the second preliminary of GDP (January-March 2022 period)

Gradual Recovery as Covid Lingers

- ◆ Real GDP: FY22 +1.9%, FY23 +2.0%
- ◆ Nominal GDP: FY22 +1.8%, FY23 +2.7%

Summary• GDP growth outlook

We revise our outlook to reflect the second preliminary Jan-Mar 2022 GDP data. We forecast real GDP growth of +1.9% YoY in FY22 and +2.0% in FY23. We revised our FY22 forecast by -0.2ppt from our previous forecast (23 May) to reflect decline in inventory contribution, and our FY23 forecast by +0.2ppt on upward revision to consumption.

- Economic outlook

Real GDP shrank by 0.5% QoQ in Jan-Mar, the first decline in two quarters, reflecting economic restrictions from CV19. Key points ahead will be CV19, faster inflation, and easing supply constraints.

CV19: The mortality rate for CV19 has fallen to about 0.01%, about 1/10 that of influenza. The rate of serious cases is also low at 0.02%. Private consumption was +0.1% QoQ in Jan-Mar despite quasi-emergency and other measures, possibly due to lower CV19 risk. If variants continue to weaken in virulence, the risk of medical collapse falls and economic activity should normalize.

Inflation: Inflation concerns are high now, but we think a slump in consumption due to inflation is unlikely. Households currently have purchasing power of around Y311tn but consumption is only around Y293tn, leaving Y18tn in untapped purchasing power. Assuming this year's inflation rate is +1.6% YoY (consensus), households' real disposable income would decline by about Y5tn, but there would be a surplus of Y18tn in purchasing power. If we consider the Y47tn in excess savings, there is even more leeway. Purchasing power is more than adequate, so we do not expect consumption to be constrained by income.

Supply constraints: Auto production supply constraints continue to curb domestic sales and exports. Semiconductor supply/demand is key and we expect it will gradually loosen as WFH/stay-home high-tech demand fades globally as the Omicron wave subsides, and as global semiconductor majors increase capex.

In sum, we expect a solid recovery in the Japanese economy driven by waning CV19 virulence, sufficient purchasing power to withstand inflation, and easing supply constraints.

- US inflation and rate hikes

Rate hikes: Inflation in the US is not due to overheating demand, but rather a shortage of supply, making it difficult for rate hikes to curb inflation. Meanwhile, services prices account for about 70% of current inflation, but as services are not something you borrow to pay for the impact of rate hikes would be small. As a result, Fed rate hikes may be larger than normal. Markets are currently pricing in a rate hike to 3.22%, but the Taylor Rule implies a hike to 3.6%. Rate hikes are a way to guide the economy to a sustainable growth path, and we do not expect the economy to fall into recession. However, the scale of rate hikes this time around is larger and could have a direct impact on markets.

Forex: If the Fed hiked the FF rate to 3.6%, the US/Japan interest rate differential would widen, and the yen could weaken to around Y135/$.

Commissions (below figures do not apply to certain customers, such as non-residents in Japan and professional investors under FIEA, for whom commissions are set on an individual basis)

When a trade is executed based on information contained in this research report, a predetermined brokerage commission may be charged. For example, when an order is placed at a branch to buy or sell a stock or other security on a securities exchange in Japan (with the exception of odd-lot remainders), a commission of up to a maximum of 1.265% of the contract settlement amount (Note: The minimum commission is 5,500 yen) is charged to the client for each product trade executed. Clients will only be charged for the purchase price of a bond, stock or other security in trades executed as part of a primary offering, secondary distribution, or with a counterparty (Note: In the case of bonds, the trade may require that the client pay accrued interest if separate from the purchase price). For trades involving products denominated in foreign currencies, an exchange of products denominated in yen and another currency, or an exchange of products denominated in different currencies, the applicable exchange rate will be determined by SMBC Nikko Securities Inc. For fees mentioned above that are subject to consumption tax, the rates and amounts include the consumption tax portion.

Risks

Each product entails the risk of a partial loss of the amount of invested capital (the risk of a partial loss of principal) or a loss equal to or greater than the amount of invested capital (the risk of a loss equal to or exceeding principal) due to a variety of factors, which may include price variance and fluctuations in stock markets, interest rates, exchange rates, real estate markets, and commodity markets, and deterioration in the creditworthiness (including the financial and management condition) of issuers of securities. When executing margin or derivative transactions ("derivatives"), there is a risk the amount of derivatives transaction exposure could exceed the client's margin collateral or margin deposit ("margin collateral amount"), and there is also a risk of loss exceeding the client's margin collateral should prices of securities or values of indexes underlying such transactions fluctuate (the risk of a loss equal to or exceeding principal). When executing over-the-counter derivative transactions, there may be a spread between the ask and bid prices on financial instruments quoted by SMBC Nikko Securities Inc. For asset-backed securities, interest, dividends, repayment of principal and other elements may be affected by changes in conditions in certain assets. Such changes may result in losses relating to early sale or redemption of such assets.

Aforementioned commissions and risks differ by financial instrument and clients should carefully examine all relevant documentation, including documentation delivered prior to execution, prospectuses, and other material provided. Clients may contact any SMBC Nikko Securities Inc. branch for questions regarding such documentation.
